How big is Japan's battery storage market?

In the commercial space, Japan's battery storage market was valued at USD 593.2 million in 2023 and is projected to reach USD 4.15 billion by 2030. While commercial installations currently dominate revenues, industrial adoption is expected to scale faster. Utility-scale storage is also gaining ground.

Why are battery storage projects growing in Japan?

The ramp up of battery storage projects in Japan continues apace, aided by growing subsidy avenues and rising volumes on various electricity markets, from spot to balancing to capacity.

Can Eku Energy commercialise large-scale batteries in Japan?

For Eku Energy, the LTDA is important to the business model of its Japanese projects but the developer, perhaps best known for projects in the UK and Australia, sees three pathways to commercialisation for large-scale batteries in Japan. The company secured a 20-year tolling agreement for its first Japan project, the 30MW/120MWh Hirohara BESS.

Why is there no unified framework for battery storage?

While amendments to the Renewable Energy Act introduced the Feed-in Premium to encourage renewable integration, no unified framework exists for battery storage. Project developers cite uncertainty around licensing, grid access, and fire safety rules--raising both compliance costs and risk premiums. Urban density further compounds the problem.
